GHASTLY SCENE IN A LINDEN STREET BEDROOM.

C. N. Erich Found by His Wife With a Ballet Hole in His Head.

The neighborhood of the Christian Church, on Linden street, one of the quietest and most retired in the city, was the scene last Saturday night of a bloody tragedy as dark as the shade which covers it after the sun goes down. Great trees, thick with foliage, and huddled close together, make a and huddled close together, make a perpetual shade even at midday in that neighborhood, and at night the scattered lamps shed their feeble light but a few feet away.

Through all the long hours of the night quiet reigned, but with suarise came the discovery of the bloody and almost lifeless body of Mr. Charles N. Erich, upon a bed in a room at No. 63.

The neighbors were aroused by a cry of distress, and, rusning in, found him lying upon his back at full length, a bullet hole in his head, his eyebalis bulging from their sockets, his face stained with blood, a pistol with an empty chamber lying upon the floor by the bedside, and the sheet and carpet bespattered with vomit. The pet bespattered with vomit. The spectacle was enough to sicken the stontest of those who looked in upon it, and its horror was increased by the fact that the deed and its cause were shrouded in mystery. The wife of the spparently dying man was unable to throw any light upon i'. She stated that Mr. Erich came nome about 9 o'clock, and a little after her three boys, the oldest about 13 years of age, who had been out at play, came in, one of them going to bed with his father, the other two with her. There were two beds in the room When she awoke, early in the morning, she noticed something peculiar about the breathing of her husband, and getting out of bad she went over to him, finding him with a bullet hole in his forehead. Mrs. Erich appeared to be greatly overcome with grief, and all day Sunday and yesterday seemed to be upon the varge of losing her reason. be upon the varge of losing her reason. She was entirely incapable of aiding in the case of her husband, who was constantly attended by Dra. Rogers, E-skine and Henning. They gave no hope of his recovery. A part of the bullet, which pierced the brain, was extracted, but a part remains. Late last evening dark gray matter was oozing from the orifice, which is almost in the center of the forehead.

Mrs. Erich asserts that she heard no

Mrs. Erich asserts that she heard no unusual noise during the night, but the boy, who slept with his father, thinks he heard a shot, but the sound was not great enough to arouse him thoroughly. The police, who visited the scene early Sunday morning, found a pillow which they think, on account of the powder stains, was used to muffle the sound. The weapon

There were months at a time when they seemed to be on the most affectionate terms, and when this was the case hey were frequently seen on summer Sundays promenading with the chil-dren in the woods near the city. And then for a long period he would lapse into cruelty, his ill treatment of his wife being the gossip of the neighbor-hood. She was modest in her demeanor, though she dressed well and spent several hours a day driving about in her phaeton. Her father died recently and left her a consider-able sum. Whether with truth or not it cannot be said, but for a long time past common rumor connected Erich's name with that of the famous Adeline Yates, better known as Mme. Clarke, from the fact that she was the mistress of the late F. H. Clarke, the builder of the marble block. She has for many years been a conspicuous figure on the streets, appearing on the most crowded thoroughfarss lutely unable to swallow. His lower limbs and left side are paralyzed and the only sign of life about him is the heaving of his chest and the peculiar rattling noise from his throat above described. The room in which he lies and where the dreadful ahot was fired. is on the first floor of the building, about three feet above the level of the ground. It is the rear room, with one window opening upon the east and another upon the south. The room is very small and the two beds that are placed there armost fill up the availto move about in. The bid in which the wounded man lay is near the east window, with its head to the east. The bed next to it, and separated from it by a space of ten inches, is also placed it by a space of ten inches, is also placed with its head to the east and is the one occupied by Mrs. Erich and the children when the shot was fired. Both beds are very low, the one usually occupied by Mr. Erich being only about 18 inches from the ficor, while the adjoining bed is about 10 inches higher. A blue tapestried screen stood in the sisle between the two beds. The wound from which two beds. The wound from which the patient suffers is a very ugly one, the ball having entered the very conter of the forehead, near the edge of the scalp, penetrating the frontal bone, and ranging leftward lodged in the brain. Beyond extracting a portion of the ball, weighing about eighteen grains, no effort has been successful to remove the leaden missile. The ball is still in the brain, and likely to remain there until death ter-minates the unfortunate man's life. When the reporter left the patient last night his condition indicated no material change from what it has been since the first examination. His temperature was 102°, and his physician was unable to say how long he might linger. It was not even certain whether he would live through the night, but there were no certain symptoms of immediate dissolution.

AFFRAY AT BALEIGH. One Young Man Seriously Stabbed

-A General Melee, A game of base ball at Raleigh last Sunday wound up with a general fight, which may prove fatal to at least one of the participants. It appears that a young man named Gay, who lives in the city, went out to Raleigh with a party of his friends Sunday, and was standing looking on at a game of ball being played between some of his party and a Raleigh nine, when he was ordered, in a rather inwhen he was ordered, in a rather insulting tone, to get out of the way. He declined, and drew his knife; several boys crowded around him but did not attack him. He went off and returned with John A. Taylor and Charles Hodges, and made a descent on the crowd. Taylor stabled John Dolan in the back, the blade pene-trating to the hollow. He also cut Tom Dolan; one or two others were slightly wounded in the melee. Taylor sprang on his horse immediately after doing the cutting, and escaped. Tom Maury drew a pistol and snapped it at Gay, and was afterward arrested and fined $25. John Dolan resides with his father on Robeson street, this city. He is badly hurt, and Dr. Duncan, who was immediately called, thinks his recovery doubtful.

LIVELY CHASE

For a Black Brute at Midnight

Along the Bayon Banks. About 12 o'clock Sunday night a party of excursionists who were returning home, when passing stong Poplar street near the market house from a pallet near spring from a pallet near the door and, seizing a stick, dash away in pursuit. The crowd joined in, but the fugitive had too good a start to be overtaken. It sppeared that the author of the scream was the wife of the man who had been the first to spring up and give chase. The room was too warm for him and he went outside to sleep. His wife remained within and was awakened by a black about her couch. She cried aloud and sprang from her bed and fled.

MISSISSIPPI POLITICS

CALHOUN COUNTY has instructed for F. G. Barry, the present incumbent, for Congress.

Col. F. A. TYLES, editor of Holly Springs South, is a candidate for Mayor of Holly Springs. THE Democratic Convention of the Fourth Congressional District will meet at Winona, September 2d. Hon.

F. G. Barry will probably be renominated. BARKSDALE and Hooker are having a hot fight for the Congressional nomi-nation in the Seventh District, and the indications are that Hooker will get THE Republican Congressional Ex-ecutive Committee met in Greenville July 9th and resolved that a convention meet on August 7th for the pur-pose of nominating a candidate for the Third Congressional District, and that each County Executive Committee be directed to call a meeting of the several county conventions on July 31st to elect delegates to the district con-and satins and her person blazing with jewels. It is reported that Erich visit-ed her saturday, but she was at the vention. THE Democratic Executive Commit tee of the First Congressional District of Mississippi held a meeting at Aber-deen last Monday, and determined upon Thursday, September 2d, as the time and Starkville as the place of ment e iphatically, substantiating it by refer ace to President Hadden, who had he arrested at Mrs. Erihe's reholding the district convention for nominating a candidate for Congress. All the counties in the district-Tishomingo, Alcorn, Prentiss, Lee, Ita-wamba, Monroe, Lowndes and Oktibher. he says that Erich used to visit her sister Louisa about three beha-were represented in person or by proxy, and the proceedings were harmonious throughout.

THE New Orleans Evening States last Tuesday, the 13th inst, says that a spirited contest is going on in the Sixth District of Mississippi for the Democratic nomination for Congress. Judge H. S. Van Eston, of Wilkinson county, is the present member and is serving his second term. From his boyhood, through thick and thin, in and out of season, in the halcyon days of Democracy before the war, and during the dark and seemingly hopeless era of carpetbaggery, when to be a Demo-crat was to be politically ostracised, Judge Van Eaton has always been a fearless, outspoken, uncompromising Democrat. Indeed, if we were asked to point out our model of a Democrat, and Van Eaton was in reach, we should put our finger on him, and without taking the trouble to go further, say "there is the man."

Baseball Notes.

NEWARE, N. J., July 19.—The exhibition game today between the St. Louis Browns and the Newarks was won by the latter by the score of 4 to 3 CHARLSBYON News and Courier: Bry-nan, the left fielder of the Memphis cam, made a conspicuously fine run-ning catch from his position. He just reached the flying ball in time to take it in, but fell in the act. He did not lose his grip, however, and from his prestra'e position held up the ball for the ' judgment" of the umpire.

Sr. Louis, July 18.—The baseball game riayed here today for the benefit of Daisy Murdoch, an actress now very ill in New York, between two teams, one composed of newspaper men and the other of members of the dramatic companies now playing here, was a great success, and tonight a check for $300 was forwarded to the actress. The game was won by the press men by a score of 5 to 4 and was abounded in amusing incidents.

The Dwyers in the Lead, In 1885 the Dwyer stable won $87, 000, which was an increase of $24,000 over the preceding year. These are amounts in round figures. This year it has already won, up to date,$114,576. Deducting the stable forfeits and those uncollectable would reduce the figure below $100,000. Only nine of the horses which they have started failed to earn brackets. The chief bread winners are Inspector B. Tremont and Mics Woodford, in the order named Tremont has won at every asking, and now has eleven races to his credit His engagements are numerous, and there is a possibility that he will eclipse the record of The Bard in Eng-land last season. The Bard started sixteen times and was not beaten. In many of his engagements Tremont will be required to concede weight; in some he will be called upon to take up penalties. The stable, however, is retong in two year old timber; so it is ot probable that Tremont will take np the penalties if others can be sent out and maintain its prestige. The Mesers. Dwyer are indisputably the best managers of the turf, and they know just where and when to place their horses, young and old, to advan-tage. They have made no mistake so far, and there is no likelihood they will make any with Tremont. Honorable in all their dealings, these plucky

American sportsmen are richly de-serving of the fame and substantial success they have achieved. DROWNED. Fatal Accident in the River Sunday Morning. About 10 o'clock Sunday morning C C. Metz, a shoemaker, and two of his employes, J. S. Storch and C. Birdsiel, were returning from a skiff ride over the river, when the bottom struck a rope attached to a barge near the foot of Beale street. The skiff was everturned and its occupants thrown out. They managed to catch hold of the rope but the current was so strong that their hold was loosened. Metz was swept under the barge and came out on the other side. Birdsiel was drowned and Storch managed to escape. It is reported that a small dog, wit-Storch nessing the distress of the three men, swam out to them, reaching Birdsell just as he was going down. Birdsell grasped the noble little animal, and they both went down to a watery grave together.

A WORD FOR GRAHAM

BY ONE WHO KNOWS HIM WELL

And Who Predicts That He Will Emerge From His Troubles All Right—The Canse of Them.

Who is there in this city of 65,000

To the Editors of the Appeal:

inhabitan's who has not noticed the false name even to John W. Graham in the Avilanche of Sanday's is us? Who is the c. knowing the facts in the case as I do, can say that John W. Graham, on the 4th of July, left the city estensibly to visit friends in Onicago, but subsequently skipped to Canada to be sale from the hands of the law; that it is a mystery as to what he did with the money, especially to those whom he so vilely deceived? That it is the old story. An exemplary (so called) young man robbing hit friends and skipping to Canada. I ask my readers to picture to themselves a brother in danger of imprisonment for life, probably, or death on the gallows, and then to sak himself would be not procure at any cost money to save him. John W. Graham has abrother; although a wild one, a brother still. A short while ago, as it is well known, he killed a man in self defense in Waco, Tex. With money on the other side to convict, and, if possible, to hang, it became necessary to raise money to defend his brother in a time of need. He, as a true brother, with a heart filled with anguish, took a step to procure the money, which in the eyes of some, but which in the eyes of a true man, will never make appear as a true man, will never make appear as the great (?) the good (?) Avalanche pictures him. Some may say, how do I know this when Graham is in Canada? John W. Graham made a salary of $180 a month. Who will say he did not live up to his income? But who will say he lived over it? Did not the papers in this city say in an interview with Jesse Graham that his brother came down handsomely to save his life, and here handsomely to save his life, and here I ask you my reader what true brother would not have done so. That John Graham went to Chicago is true, and there laying his case before a supposed friend, he asked him to lend him the amount of the shortage. This the party amount of the shortage. This the party said he would do. But hound that he was, he held him up until the last moment, and he said: "No; you can't get it." Too late to catch the train home, he, in a fit of desperation, did go to Canada. But there, I hope and trust, he will not long remain. Would he have sent home his life insurance policy for security had he been intent on robbing? I say no. Would he have gone to Canada on a free pass and with empty pockets had he been a thief? I say emphatically no; as such he did Thank God, he has a true and noble wife, who will bear him up in this and all other trials of this life. Although he has a host of friends and blood relatives grief stricken on account of the publicity given the affair, I will venture to say that at no very distant date John W. Graham, like the sun, will appear from his hiding place more radiant than before and with an untarnished name.

ONE OF US TWO.

The day will dawn when one of as shall harken In vain to hear a voice to has grown dumb;
And morns will fade, moons pale and shadows and eyes watch for feet that never come.

One of us two must some time face exist-Alone with memories that but sharpen pain.

And these sweet days shall shine back in the distance Like dreams of summer dawns in nights of

One of us two, with tortured heart hal a broken. Shall read long tressured letters thro' salt there; Shall kiss with anguished lips each cher-ished token

That speaks of these love crewned deli-cious years.

One of us two shall find all light, all beauty, All joy on earth, a tale forever done; Shall know henceforth that life means only Oh, God! Oh, God! have pity on that one!

ON 'CHANGE.

Closing prices of May options at Chicago yesterday: Pork, $9 82½; lard, 46 65; clear rib sides, $6 32½; corn, 39fc; grain, 79c; oats, 29fc. HILL, FONTAINE & Co. were notified yesterday that the first bale of new crop cotton had been shipped to them from Houston by C. J. Wolkart.

VISITORS on 'Change yesterday: T. Biser, St. Louis; J. A. Belew, Granada, Miss.; H. Karsner, Miss.; S.C. Devine, Canton, Miss.; E. A. Blew, Grenada, Miss.

C. L. Greene & Co.'s report on cotton futures says: "The Liverpool reports exercised a depressing influence here. Unloading of many small longs led to 3@4 points decline. The selling, however, was not like original, and there seemed to be especial ability to the earn of Argust contracts. ity to take care of August contracts, which helped sustain the new crop months in the face of further improvement in weather reports from the Oil and Drug Reporter: "The cotton seed oil market is firm, but it, is still some distance away from the figures reached this time last year. Holders are unanimous in the opinion that prices are going higher, but the de-mand has fallen off and support is lacking from that quarter. One no-ticeable feature of the past few weeks has been the fact that sellers have positively declined to yield from their views, although buyers would have taken larger quantities at a fraction under ruling figures. The market also receives strength from the outside speculators who bought when values were considerably lower, but the amount held on speculative account is not thought to be large. Crude supplies on this market are light and offerings in the primary mark-ets are few. The conclusion formed from present circumstances would indicate a higher market, if prime crude is actually scarce as reperted. There is a suspicion that some parties are holding prime oil until the market gives them an opportunity to unload at good figures, but the remainder of the season is only limited to a few weeks, and if the cot-ton crop comes out all right, it will probably have a depressing effect upon oil values. It is safe to say that the quality of the oil next season will be much superior, as most of the mills are in other hands and more attention will be paid to the seed before crushing."
